A Clinical Exploration into the Pre and Post Adoption Issues, Challenges, and Emotional Territory for Adoptive Parents

The relationship between adoptive parents and children are often consciously and superficially without visible problems in the early developmental phases only to erupt into conflict in adolescence and young adulthood. This presentation will discuss these early dynamics and illuminate possible precursors to problems later on.

Bernie Michael Glintz, LCSW, BCD, FAPA

Bernie Michael Glintz is the immediate past president of the Queens chapter. He has enjoyed a multi-faceted career in mental health, corporate, and forensic consulting for over 30 years. He specializes in the treatment, training, and clinical consultation in the field of Adoption. He received his psychoanalytic training at the National Psychological Association for Psychoanalysis and was an in-service trainer at Holliswood Hospital and has taught at York College and the NYU School of Continued Professional Studies. Bernie has presented at many adoption conferences on a variety of clinical subjects and trains fellow mental health practitioners in the treatment of adoption.
